

Grow With YOG

The 2nd Youth Olympic Game will be held in Nanjing in 2014. It's one of the world's most important competition, and a great event for Nanjing. As a citizen in Nanjing, I wish I can do more for the 2nd YOG. To be a volunteer is my dream.

If I were a volunteer, I could take an English-Chinese bilingual translation job, because I am good at English. If I were a volunteer, I could also take a cheer leader job to encourage and support athletes, because I have teamwork ability and sport spirit. If I were a volunteer, I would introduce traditional Nanjing streets and foods to foreigners, because I know where to see the beautiful scenery and where to eat the yummy food.

I know it's not easy to be a good volunteer, so I will work for this target right now. I will do more exercises, I will learn English harder, and I will know Nanjing better.

All of the above, in order to meet the Youth Olympic Game's needs, we need to grow with YOG.

小作者对文章主题的把握很到位,切入点也不错。整个文章的条理性很清晰。词汇和句型的使用很丰富,特别是排比句的应用,对于一个五年级的孩子来说,难能可贵。另外,某些单词的意思掌握得还不够深入,用词不够准确,还有需要不断提高的地方。

Nanjing 2014, We Grow

(节选)

In 1100 days to come, young athletes all over the world will meet in Nanjing, the city of universal love, to attend a gala aimed at being higher, faster (swifter) and stronger. "Grow with the YOG", the slogan of the Nanjing 2014 Youth Olympic Games, is an inspiration to me, a girl student in Nanjing Foreign Language School, for (in) personal development during the process of making contributions to the 2nd Youth Olympics.

In December, 2009, Nanjing became one of the six candidate cities for the 2014 Youth Olympic Games. Almost at the same time, I was elected vice president of the Youth Volunteers (去掉s) Association in my school, organizing extracurricular activities for my schoolmates and taking part in various activities myself. My working experiences include arranging books and magazines in the library, giving directions to travelers in the subway station and hearing the wisdom of life taught by the elderly in the nursing home. Of the people I had met with, the mentally handicapped children in the brain hospital impressed me the most. I can still remember the scene of my first visit to the hospital. A little girl, who was sitting in the corner and holding a dusty toy bear in her arms, stared at me for a long time with hostility. I felt a little embarrassed, but I decided to stay. I sat beside her, told (telling) a fairy tale to her, and I drew a picture of the bear in her arms. Gradually, she accepted me, and we spent a happy afternoon together. When we met again one week later, she handed her favorite toy bear to me to play with. Apparently, I had made myself her friend with my patience. By these valuable experiences, not only were my inter-person communication skills improved, but I also got my sense of social responsibility enhanced. Then, it suddenly occurred to me that the YOG can become a big cozy family reunion as long as everyone involved contributes their loving and caring.

Nanjing won its bid to host the 2014 gala on February 11th of 2010, and it's exactly the day of my 16th birthday. What a coincidence! And (and去掉) I feel destined and duty-bound to do something for the grand occasion. The next day we heard the good news, my friends and I decided to celebrate it by climbing the Purple Mountain in Nanjing. The climb up the mountain was difficult and exhausting but no one would stop to have a rest. We all agreed that the preparation for the YOG admitted no delay and that action should be taken at once. "It will be much easier for us to do the voluntary work under the scorching sun if we brave the cold to exercise now. This improves our endurance and perseverance!" said Annie, one of my classmates, when she was finally on the top of the mountain, trying to get her breath back. Every one of us was touched by her great passion. This experience of climbing the Purple Mountain made me think a lot. The great event of the YOG is a test of our courage and determination and it calls for effort on the part of every citizen. ....

Growth never ends and achievement has no limit. As the saying goes, many a little makes a mickle. Be assured that our wisdom and effort will add luster to the spirit of the Youth Olympic Games, and together with the YOG, we, the younger generation of the world, will grow every day, taller and stronger.

小作者写得很好,只有一些小的错误。长难句相结合,综合运用了插入语,分词短语作状语,也运用了演讲稿中经常用到的三段式排比,使文章很有气势。另外从内容上来说,以自己的真实事例和自己的想法考虑相结合,再加上一些名人名言,让文章更加充实。
